The past year competition is the competition to serve change in clients demand to build their brands and also to induce purchasing decisions altogether. The main reasons are effect from continued slowdown business and changes in consumers' characteristics to have more discretion in making purchasing decisions, and more concerns on products image and reasonableness of price.

Apart from more discretion in making purchasing decisions and more concerns of the consumers as discussed above, the consumers also need “deja vu” from the products before making a purchasing decision. Due to limitation that normally companies in the same business which could be competitors among themselves would not use the same advertising agencies, the Company then has to select the target clients from the business that it has not provided any service to any clients in that business before.
